- Dwelling Entitlement Searches can require considerable time in researching past subdivision records.
- Generally ten (10) working days are required. This commences from date of payment.
- Dwelling Entitlement Searches are carried out by assessment number. If the land includes multiple assessment numbers, additional searches must be carried out.

Dwelling Entitlement Searches

A dwelling entitlement is a right to apply for development consent for a dwelling on land. It is not development consent and does not infer that development consent can be granted in all circumstances. Dwelling entitlements may exist by virtue of one or more of the following:

- The land is an "existing holding";
- The land is a lot created by a subdivision for the purposes of erecting a dwelling;
- Is a lot that is at least the minimum lot size shown on the Lot Size Map in relation to the land.

Existing Holding - An existing holding is defined in the Lachlan Local Environmental Plan 2013 as land that:

- a) Was a holding on 20 September 1991
- b) Is a holding at the time the application for development consent referred to in 4.2B, subclause (3), Lachlan Local Environmental Plan 2013 is lodged, whether or not there has been a change in the ownership of the holding since 20 September 1991, and
- c) includes any other adjoining land acquired by the owner since 20 September 1991.

Note: the owner in whose name all the land is at the time the application is lodged need not be the same person as the owner in whose name all the land was on the stated date.

In determining whether land is an existing holding, valuation books are used to ascertain ownership on the relevant date.
